

The Chester County Planning Commission is planning its first-ever Chester County Sustainability Summit, which will be held on Tuesday, September 26th at the Conference Center at Penn State Great Valley. The event is in support of the county's Climate Action Plan, which boldly calls for an 80% reduction in greenhouse gas emissions by 2050. This will be the premier sustainability event in Chester County providing educational opportunities for industry leaders, business owners, institutions, local governments, environmental advocates, and students to hear about the exciting work of local climate heroes, and to learn about best practices in advancing sustainability initiatives across a variety of sectors.

Although this is the inaugural Sustainability Summit and attendance is difficult to predict, the event planning team is aiming for 100-200 attendees. This half-day event will include breakfast, lunch, networking, and tabling for exhibitors during registration, break, and lunch. Additional mobile workshops throughout the county to view sustainability initiatives in action will be available throughout the week of September 24th. Sponsorship opportunities for the Sustainability Summit are available and are a great way to align your organization in support of sustainability. Sponsorship levels and benefits are below.
